Views from Breedon on the Hill

Views that can be seen from the top of the hill standing in the area adjacent to the church.

We hope that all will enjoy these but it will be particularly gratifying if people not able to get to the top of the hill for various reasons find the photographs interesting.

Photographs courtesy of David Maynard and Rick Spencer

Not surprisingly, the top of the hill was chosen for a beacon in the jubilee celebrations. The following views will, I am sure, show the reasons for this choice.

A view looking towards the Coalville area. In the foreground the quarry at Cloud Hill can be seen.

A view looking towards the Loughborough area.

This is a view little to the left of the previous one. The power station at Ratcliffe on Soar and the East Midlands Airport can clearly be seen.

A similar camera position to the previous view but more zoom which makes it possible see an aeroplane on the East Midlands Airport's runway.

Another view looking towards the Nottingham area.

To the north east of Derby high ground near to Oakwood and Breadsall can be seen

To conclude, here's the beacon again. Little surprise why the hill was chosen for its site.

A view of the hill from the north west looking from the banks of the Staunton Harold reservoir

A view of the hill from the south east looking from the Middle Brand at Worthington